Massive Air Onslaught On Korean Reds

Extensive Damage In North Korean Communications Areas

(BULLETIN)
TOKYO, July 28.—(INS)—A massive air onslaught against the Communists roared into the sixth day today and there were indication it is seriously damaging North Korean communications.

The main marshalling yard of the vital Pyongyang-Wonsan railroad line and bridges in the Seoul area were the principal targets Friday.

Far east air forces announced that the yard was "choked with railroad cars" as a result of Thursday's bombing. FEAF said a column of smoke rose to 5,000 feet "almost immediately" after B-29 Superfortresses bombed the yard.

Increased anti-aircraft fire was met at the yards, which FEAF interpreted as indicating the "increased sensitivity" of the communists to the continued attacks.

Weather Not Good

Weather Friday was not as good over the battle lines, however, and fighter action there was limited.

On Thursday planes from the far east air force bomber command and the fifth air force showered more than 200 tons of demolition bombs on some 20 "carefully selected targets" in the sustained air action designed to sever the communist front troops from their supplies.

Of these 20 primary targets, the air force announced, more than two-thirds "were damaged to an extent which would temporarily or permanently restrict their use by the North Korean forces".

These targets were bridges, marshalling yards and other "critical" links in communications lines feeding supplies to communists on the battle lines.

Extensive Damage

B-29 Superfort pilots reported "extensive structural damage" to a large railroad bridge carrying traffic across the Han river from Seoul south toward the war zone. The bridge was seriously damaged in an earlier attack, but had been repaired.

New U.N. Move By Russia Causes Much Speculation

(BULLETIN)
PARIS, July 28.—(INS)—Speculation over the return of Soviet Russia to the United Nations Security Council ranged over a wide field of possibilities in European capitals today and wound up in a general attitude of "wait and see."

PARIS, July 28.—Top level western diplomats predicted today that Russia's assumption of the chairmanship of the United Nations Security Council will make August the most vitally important month of 1950, diplomatically and militarily.

The diplomats are convinced that if Russia is planning to precipitate another Korean affair or something worse elsewhere she will act while Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob Malik is in a position to obstruct the Security Council's functions.

Washington Diplomats Are Suspicious Of Soviet Move

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Russia's decision to return her representative to the United Nations as Chairman of the Security Council is viewed today as the most significant development since the Korean invasion.

Washington diplomats regard the Soviet move with suspicion.

Few of them believe that Russian Delegate Jacob Malik will do anything to create harmony while serving as Chairman of the Council for the month of August.

Delegates of the Soviet Union and its satellites walked out of the U.N. after trying unsuccessfully to seat a Chinese Communist delegation.

Against this background, Washington diplomats feel certain that Malik merely will appear to question the validity of Security Council procedures.

Some believe that Russia has placed herself in a poor legalistic position by questioning the authority of U.N. to call upon all mem-

Preparing For Congress Action On Truman Plan

Limited Economic Powers Requests Before Congress

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS)—The senate and house are preparing today for action on President Truman's request for limited economic powers stopping short of complete mobilization on the home front.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders are canvassing congressional sentiment on how much authority should be delegated to the president for dealing with the Korean emergency.

Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, said that there is "at least a suspicion that the present crisis is being used to secure powers long desired but unrelated and unjustified in the present necessity".

Taft said the president's request for limited authority will "inevitably" lead to total controls. The Ohioan observed that price, wage and rationing curbs "might be unpopular before an election".

Would Give Authority

The administration bill would give Mr. Truman authority to allocate scarce defense materials, curb consumer and banking credits and prevent commodity speculation.

The house banking and currency committee approved the control bill virtually in the form asked by the president. House debate is scheduled to begin Tuesday.

The senate banking committee goes into executive session today to begin consideration of the measure.

TRAIN BAZOOKA ON ENEMY

Several cities in the Dominion of Canada, Pa. News Observers, are totally without the usual traffic lights or stop signs. Consequently horn-blowing is the only way of taking their place. On the other hand, our city is well equipped with traffic facilities as prescribed by state law. What then is the reason for all the horn-blowing on and near the vicinity of Washington street?

Highway department employees have completed their task of resurfacing Sampson street, Route 422, from Grant street to the city line. The project adds another smooth surface street to the city's highway system. The route will give visitors a good impression of the city as they enter or leave the city.

Extensive work is to be resumed shortly on the Frew Mill road by highway workmen, it was announced today by Alfred A. Martin, County superintendent. At present, drainage is under way and upon

WASHINGTON, July 28.—

Draft officials set to work today to call to the colors the 100,000 men requested by the Army during September and October.

Chairman Vinson (D) Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee called simultaneously for the creation of an additional five to eight army divisions.

Vinson urged that the army's 10 combat divisions be boosted to 15 or 18 divisions to cope with the Korean war and possible Communist aggression elsewhere.

Other Developments

There were these other developments in the military picture:

1. President Truman signed a bill to freeze all enlistments for one year.

CHILD SERVICE WORK EXPANDED

HARRISBURG — Secretary of Welfare William C. Brown today announced the abolishment of the Bureau of Community Work in the Department of Welfare and the creation in its place of two new streamlined bureaus, the Bureau of Homes and Hospitals and the Bureau of Children's Services.

Brown said the changes became effective immediately and are part of a modified reorganization plan of the Department of Welfare.

"These new bureaus have been created following extensive study to replace the Bureau of Community Work which has grown into a bulky, top-heavy bureau," Brown said. "For a number of years there has been a crying need for greater emphasis on juvenile problems and children's affairs. Creation of a separate Bureau of Children's Services within the structure of the Department of Welfare will help in great degree to meet the need for expansion of children's services in Pennsylvania."

Brown said the Bureau of Children's Services will consist of two divisions: The Division of Supervision and Licensing and the Division of Rural Child Welfare. Headining the Division of Supervision and Licensing is George H. Black. Miss Helen C. Hubbell is chief of the Division of Rural Child Welfare.

Shrimp Discovery Starts Stampede

KEY WEST, Fla. — (INS) — The recent discovery of rich new shrimp beds between Dry Tortugas and Key West has started a modern day "gold rush" to the west coast of Florida.

Word of the discovery swept through fishing centers along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts, touching off a virtual stampede of trawlers and fishermen eager to cash in on the newly found shrimp beds, which can be developed into a million dollar industry.

The shrimp yield has been high so far, but the fishermen have a major problem to contend with: the shrimp beds are located on coral rock bottom which cuts expensive nets to shreds.

However, many fishermen have solved this problem by using an electronic "fish-finder" which enables the shrimpers to see how the ocean bed appears, as represented on a chart.

By using this instrument, made by the Bendix corporation, the fishermen can detect and avoid the hazardous underwater coral and navigate safely in unknown waters.

Coal, bread, and salt, symbols of warmth and prosperity, are traditional English New Year's Day gifts, says the National Geographic Society.

paired and put back in operation just a few hours before the latest bombing.

Other United Nations planes, flying in close support of ground troops, smashed at communist forces assembling in Kurye in the southwest. American and Australian Mustangs left the city in flames.

80 jets and F-51s boomed rocket and machine gun fire on front troops along most of the flaming battle line Thursday.

Two huge explosions were noted at the village of Yongsan, seven miles north of Yongdong. They apparently were ammunition or fuel supply dumps hit by allied planes.

Again communist airmen kept to the ground. However, one F-51 fighter was shot down by anti-aircraft fire. The pilot was picked up by a U. S. naval vessel.

bers for forces to stop the Communist invasion of South Korea.

Malik was absent when the Security Council took this action on June 27.

Western Powers emphasize that the Communist never before have challenged the validity of Security Council decisions when any of the big five powers has abstained from voting.

Speculation on Malik's return to the Council's meeting centered on these points:

1. A possible attempt to use the veto in any future decisions on Korea, including the offer of troops by Thailand, Nationalist China, Britain, Australia, and others.

2. Again challenging the validity of Nationalist China's seat on the Security Council.

3. Defending any new Communist aggression which may be planned.

WILL CALL 80,000 MORE DRAFTEES IN TWO MONTHS

Though some ground was regained by the American counter-attacks and two U. S. Army companies were extricated from Communist pockets, the invading hordes kept surging into wave after wave of attack.

"The enemy is busily engaged pushing on the whole front," Gen. MacArthur's spokesman declared at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Unseating Is Likely

In view of this the unseating of Nationalist China is foreseen as a likely result.

However, it is believed that the U. S. will be able to muster sufficient support to prevent the actual seating of Communist China. This will result in the absence of any official Chinese representative on the council.

The possibility also is foreseen that Malik will demand the withdrawal of American naval forces from Formosa and vicinity and force a vote on this question which may prove extremely embarrassing to the western powers, especially Britain.

The gift was left in the will of Valentine Sparrow, who died in 1726 and is buried in the chancel of the parish church.

He bequeathed 14 cents weekly "to the poor in bread."

Annual bequests in Sparrow's will of $2.94 to the vicar, $1.48 to the parish clerk and $5.60 to the churchwardens for looking after his monument, are still carried out.

Welter Of Speculation

LONDON, July 28.—(INS) — Russia's decision to return to United Nations sessions and to assume the chairmanship of the Security Council caused a welter of speculation today in Britain.

The London Daily Herald said:

"Whatever the immediate move means, it seems clear that Moscow, having failed to hamstring the council by denunciation from without, now is going to try to sabotage it from within."

The Daily Express said it believed the change in tactics means the Soviets will use the council to accuse America of "aggression."

Britain thought it probable that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky or Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will attend the sessions to begin Aug. 1.

tion procedure. The Russians, boycotting the U. N. since January, served notice yesterday that Malik will assume the chairmanship.

Diplomats in Paris believe further that one of Malik's first moves will be to declare that Nationalist China should be unseated in favor of a delegate from Communist China, thus forcing a vote on the issue.

There is doubt in diplomatic circles in the French capital that the United States will be able to muster the seven votes necessary to defeat any such move by Malik.

Government studies, it is explained, show that much of the panic and rush buying of such things as automobiles, refrigerators and other consumer durable goods is being done "on a shoestring."

Economists say that when the government moves in with stiff requirements for down payments and short time installments on a long list of things there will be a noticeable dampening effect on purchases.

HIGHER TAXES ARE CERTAIN

Higher taxes for next year are as sure as death and (par don the expression) taxes. There is no help for it. If the Korean mess were settled tomorrow, taxes would still have to be raised. If non-military government activities, including social security, were cut to the lowest minimum the American people would stand for, the increased military expenditures that have become inevitable would still force the United States to spend more money.

It may be that if everyone works hard and helps keep inflation down, tax increases won't affect the standard of living seriously. And higher taxes help balance the budget and keep the national debt from rising. In this way taxes that are high enough prevent an increase in debt service and hence may prevent additional future tax increases.

If there is another world war, the debt will have to shoot up. But for the present war in Korea, and for the increased military expenditures the world situation now calls for, sound fiscal policy seems to call for paying as we go. It will be cheaper in the long run.

The United States seems to have reached a point now where there is only one way to get real tax relief. That way is to reduce armaments. The United States is insisting that the UN, even now, go on studying the problem of disarmament; and U. S. experts have offered new concrete proposals for the UN committee to consider. If there is a third world war, all bets are off. All taxes, for those that survive, will be out of this world.

If American efforts succeed, there is a good chance for disarmament and real tax reduction. They must succeed.

PLANNED INFAMY IN KOREA

Most of the 101 documents included in the State Department's White Paper on Korea are simply more precise and detailed and official expressions of facts already known to newspaper readers. But Document 10, the report of the UN Temporary Commission on Korea (UNTCOK), gives a startling picture of events preceding the invasion. For about three weeks before the attack, North Korea abandoned its campaign of vilification and took the initiative in proposing peaceful unification of all Korea.

In view of the scale and efficiency of the offensive launched on June 25, it is evident that military preparations for it were already under way when the campaign began. Its sole purpose, in the opinion of UNTCOOK, must have been to pull South Korea into the belief that no immediate attempt to force a solution by force was being considered by North Korea.

On June 3, North Korea announced that 5,300,000 of its citizens had signed an appeal for peace and unification. On June 7, the Pyongyang radio began broadcasting repeated appeals to all democratic parties and groups throughout Korea, proposing elections for both parts of Korea following the meeting of a proposed consultative council.

This conciliatory attitude seemed to represent a complete about-face from North Korea's previous hostility—despite its proposed exclusion of nine South Korean officials. So on June 10 UNTCOOK, where they said they had been well treated and expressed surprise at North Korean misinformation about members of the South Korean government.

Meanwhile UNTCOOK offered to mediate. North Korea rejected that proposal. South Korea treated the whole appeal as a trick to undermine its government. But negotiations were proceeding in relative amity when North Korea suddenly launched its sneak invasion. It then proceeded to charge that South Korea had rejected all peace proposals and had itself launched an invasion. None of this, says UNTCOOK, is supported by any evidence.

The parallel to events preceding Pearl Harbor is worth noting.

The term "cold shoulder" is said to have originated in the Middle Ages when an unwelcome guest was served a cold shoulder of beef. These days that wouldn't be a brush-off—it would be a feast.

Britain To Send Ground Troops

British policy—ever controversial since the nation voted itself into socialism five years ago—was linked firmly with that of the United Nations today but still faces criticism at home and abroad.

The announcement by Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell that Britain is prepared to send ground troops, complete with infantry, armor, artillery and engineers to South Korea could not fail to hearten the democracies.

Great Britain Joins

It meant that Great Britain was joining with the United States, Thailand, Turkey, Australia and New Zealand in the van of an international punitive force against communism that will occupy a unique place in future history.

There was a slight dash of cool weather, however, in Shinwell's statement that this force could not be prepared at a moment's notice and his insistence that it takes time to build up an expedition.

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill, always at his corrosive best when attacking the Labor government on virtually anything and everything, called Shinwell's proposals "few and far between."

Power and Might Slips

As in the United States, the chief criticism against the Labor government seems to be based upon the allegation that it allowed might and power to slip away since the end of the second world war.

This, however, blinks at the still very considerable strength of the royal navy, the continued skill if not numerical strength of the air force, and military commitments in Malaya and Hong Kong which have helped to discourage communism and keep it in check.

Shinwell said that he is trying to make the armed services more attractive to obtain a speed-up in land reinforcements.

This consisted almost entirely of an appraisal of Soviet strength. Competent observers, however, saw a great deal of political shrewdness in the long preamble that preceded the minister's brief announcement of the plans for land reinforcements.

This is an exceedingly important consideration. If the government's present plans result in anything suggesting a popular fervor in behalf of the United Nations' effort, the forces of aggression may receive a heavy blow from a perhaps unexpected quarter.

Shinwell said that Premier Marshal Stalin has 175 fully equipped divisions at his beck and call. He estimated the standing army at 2 million, 800,000 men and said this would be doubled with mobilization.

The minister added that Russia has 19,000 war planes, including the most modern jets, plus 25,000 tanks.

Then, to underscore the fact that Britain has to watch out for her own safety as well as extending herself in the far east to fulfill a United Nations pledge, Shinwell warned ominously that a huge percentage of these deadly Soviet

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

PASTEURIZE RAW MILK YOURSELF

MANY parents on vacation, especially those with young children, may find it difficult to secure pasteurized milk, though raw milk from nearby farms may be plentiful and relatively inexpensive. All the year around, indeed, for thousands of families in rural areas, including families who produce milk, raw milk is available at very little cost, at from a fourth to half the price of pasteurized milk.

But when raw milk is consumed it is done at great risk to health. Knowing this, some farm families are consuming less milk and fewer families in some outlying areas are "keeping a cow." Yet all persons who produce milk and all can easily procure raw milk can pasteurize it themselves.

Quick and Effective

The Bureau of Dairy Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture, not only warns against drinking of raw milk but gives instructions on how to pasteurize raw milk at home, quickly, effectively and easily, about as follows:

Pour the milk into the upper part of a double boiler. Put in a clean thermometer (preferably one that floats) and when the mercury reaches 160 degrees Fahrenheit, count off fifteen seconds.

Empty the hot water from the lower part of the boiler and replace with cold water to reduce the temperature of the milk quickly, low in the water will help.

Transfer the milk when cooled into bottles which have been sterilized in boiling water. Then cover and refrigerate.

The Bureau suggests that aluminum foil makes a good cover, and that a floating thermometer may be bought at hardware stores, dairy supply companies or local dairy plants. Any thermometer may be used, however.

Milk in Jars

If you wish to pasteurize raw milk in jars and thus save pouring the milk into bottles after boiling, the following method is advised by the Bureau: Pour the raw milk into sterile glass canning jars, leaving three-fourths inch head-space at the top. Seal and arrange in a water-bath container.

Place there also one sealed jar containing water instead of milk, with a thermometer in it. Put enough water in the container to cover the jars, and heat till the thermometer registers 163 degrees Fahrenheit. Hold this temperature one minute. Then remove jars of milk cool and refrigerate.

When either method is used skillfully no cooking flavor is noticeable nor is there any loss in important nutritive value.

How to pasteurize raw milk at home is often demonstrated by the county home demonstration agent before groups of housewives; also by the teacher in home economic classes in junior and senior high schools. There should also be such demonstrations in classrooms of children far down the grades, especially in rural schools. All milk-producing farmers should press for education in this direction, not only for promotion of health but also for increased consumption of milk. Rapid growth of rural electrification and refrigeration is a good ally. Nor will home pasteurization complete with milk distributors. Rather it will help increase demand for bottled milk.

If you think your life is full of too many ups and downs just consider that U. S. Army sergeant who performed 123 parachute jumps in a single day.

General Eisenhower says he doesn't think the Korean crisis is "the beginning of World War III." In fact, there is some argument that it's merely a flareup of World War II.

'SUPER BAZOOKA!'

Senate Historic-Histrionics

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 28.—Most anything can happen in the U. S. Senate's production of "Joe-Joe," that wild and rousing melodrama which features the two well-known adversaries, Joe Stalin and Joe McCarthy.

The Soviet leader hasn't been on the Senate floor at all, and the Senator hasn't showed up very often. But both are always there in spirit, and it's hard to say which name is most often hurled back and forth across the aisle, a borderline which has become almost as ideological as the 38th parallel in Korea.

Last time I looked, all the contestants were figuratively enmeshed in a melee with such a tangle of arms, legs and political extremities that friend and foe were often indistinguishable and many a blood-brother has bitten his kinsman's ear by mistake.

Deep Moan Of Anguish

There was a deep moan of anguish the other day when Republican Senator Smith of New Jersey found that he had accidentally voted for the "transmittal"—hence the "approval"—of the terrible Tydings report which labeled McCarthy a "fraud and a hoax."

Equally painful was the squeeze upon Republican Senator Lodge when he tried to explain to GOP liberals why he hadn't signed the Tydings report and to GOP conservatives why he issued a report of his own which went at least part way with Tydings. Lodge was staggering alarmingly about the floor, what with trying to carry water on both shoulders.

Some of the by-play was comic and some had tragic overtones.

There were observers in the press gallery who compared Senator Jenner's 30-minute counter-attack on Senator Tydings with Webster's Reply to Hayne. On the evening of that celebrated exchange in 1830, Webster encountered Hayne at a White House party and said:

"How are you, Colonel Hayne?"

"None the better for you, sir," grunted Hayne.

Likely Priceless Touch

Myself, I liked the priceless touch when Tydings jumped to his feet after Jenner had practically called him a traitor. Everybody braced for a ferocious blast from the militant Marylander, but he quietly offered two Armed Services Committee reports to speed up the Korean War. It was like the day in 1834 when Senator Henry Clay implored Vice President Van Buren, the presiding officer, to carry an appeal for soft money to President Jackson.

"Tell him," cried Clay in a choking voice "of the tears of helpless widows, no longer able to earn their bread, of unclad and unfed orphans, who have been driven by this (hard money) policy out of their busy pursuits . . . Let him not drive this brave, generous and patriotic people to madness and despair."

Van Buren descended the rostrum and walked over to Clay. Everyone expected the two old show-offs to fall into one another's arms. But Van Buren looked into Clay's watery eyes and said:

"Mr. Clay, may I borrow a pinch of your excellent snuff?"

Despite some occasional humor, it's a wretched spectacle which finds both Democrats and Republicans charging each other with treason. We must go back a little further in history to find a reminiscent scene before the Senate. It's 1805 and Aaron Burr, a vice president and former senator, is making his farewell address:

House Is A Sanctuary

"This house is a sanctuary—a citadel of law, of order and of liberty. It is here—here in this exalted refuge—here if anywhere will be the resistance made to the storms of political frenzy and the silent arts of corruption."

"And if this Constitution be ever destined to perish by the sacrilegious hands of a demagogue or usurper (which God avert!), its expiring agonies will be witnessed on this floor."

Let us see how the Senators of long ago reacted to this warning by a man who was even then plotting the nation's downfall. According to eye-witness of Burr's sardonic performance:

"He bowed and retired. The door resounded after him and the whole Senate was in tears. There was silent and solemn weeping for perhaps five minutes."

No such prophet has stood up to warn the Senate of 1950. Nobody has wept over the tragic aspects of the McCarthy drama. Nobody, I mean, except perhaps the angels who understand the full meaning of it all.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

You wouldn't think that you could learn about child rearing from a couple of robins, would you?

But you can. I did.

As those of you who read my column regularly know, I have no children of my own, which makes me an authority on their proper bringing up.

Sometimes I think that those who have "offspring are better qualified than parents to speak about motherhood or fatherhood.

No mother — at least not the usual mother — sees her baby's shortcomings and defects.

To her it is about the most wonderful thing ever created. It is perfect. It is the epitome of all that is beautiful, sweet and precious.

It is good that it is so.

Korean Forces May Be Facing Supply Trouble

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS)—An army spokesman said today Korean Communist forces, fearing supply troubles, may now be attempting a desperate "grand slam push" against American and South Korean troops defending the Pusan bridgehead.

The spokesman, noting the growing intensity of United Nations air attack on the already well-extended North Korean supply lines, declared:

"It is not at all impossible that the Communist army soon may find itself unable to get vital materials to the front."

"They probably have their full strength in operation now and figure they'd better use it before Gen. MacArthur can build up our strength to more formidable proportions."

"The army official also reported that the Communists are believed to be recruiting 50,000 Korean women "for use in the combat area," presumably in roles normally assigned to service troops."

The spokesman added, however, that there is no clear indication as to how the women will be used or whether they are North or South Koreans.

A navy briefing officer told newsmen that American warships and South Korean vessels continued harassing activity against the Communists on Korea's west coast, while U. S. naval aircraft blasted numerous targets in Red-held territory.

Revenue Dept. Seeks Names Of Out-Of-State Cigarette Purchasers

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(INS)—The State Revenue department is on the trail today of Pennsylvanians buying cigarettes from out-of-state mail order houses in the hope of evading the commonwealth's four cents a package tax.

W. H. Beachey, collections bureau director, said mail order houses must supply the department with names of Pennsylvania buyers under the provisions of a federal law.

Notices mailed by the bureau to offenders point out that fines ranging from $1 to $25 each may be imposed for each carton of cigarettes lacking Pennsylvania tax stamps.

Offenders are urged to remit tax money to avoid "possible prosecution and embarrassment."

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 28.—(INS)—A psycho-physical testing unit to disclose driving flaws to motorists will be operated during the three-day convention of the American Veterans of World War II, starting today at Johnstown.

The governor's highway safety advisory committee reported that National Commander Harold Russell had requested the traffic safety exhibit for the Amvet convention.

The committee also announced that it is co-operating with the National Safety Council's August "signs of life" promotional campaign.

"Signs of Life," according to the committee, are traffic signs, signals and road marking designed to assure greater safety for motorists.

Agriculture Department Reports Japanese Beetles In Some Areas Of State

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(INS)—Great numbers of Japanese beetles in some areas of Pennsylvania this year were reported today by the state department of agriculture.

The beetles have caused concern among fruit and vegetable growers in sections of the Adams-Franklin-York counties fruit belt, a department spokesman said.

Many western Pennsylvania communities are experiencing the worst scourge of the pests they have ever known, the spokesman added, and heavy infestations also are reported in the Scranton and Wilkes-Barre areas.

Dr. Thomas L. Guyton, director of the department's bureau of plant industry, advised spraying plants and lawns with DDT for localized control of the beetles.

Infestation was reported as comparatively light in the Berks-Lehigh-Northampton counties area.

In South Africa one tribe requires its public speakers to stand on one foot while sputtering forth. As soon as the other foot slips to the ground the speech is automatically over. What a boon this would be in Washington and at luncheon meetings everywhere.

WASHINGTON CALLING

only makes the occupation task more difficult."

ARMY LOW IN MORALE

One might add that it also makes for an army low in morale and, therefore, deficient in the will to fight. Hanson Baldwin, military analyst of the New York Times, said recently that this was a serious deficiency of American combat forces in World War II.

It should be pretty clear by this time that what fighting men understand and believe—and how strongly they believe it—is almost as important as the weapons they fight with. Some important recommendations are contained in the report of the president's committee on religion and welfare. That report was sent over to the secretary of defense last December. It should now be dusted off, and the information and education program in all three services should be geared to the urgent needs of a democratic society faced with the gravest challenge in its entire history.

The two obelisks known as Cleopatra's Needles were built in Egypt about 1831 B. C.

Show Down On Baruch Plan Is Delayed

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS)—The Senate Banking Committee today postponed a show down on the Baruch plan for government economic controls until it finishes consideration of President Truman's limited suggestions.

Sen. Sparkman (D) Ala., said, however, he might propose adoption of the recommendations by elder statesman Bernard Baruch for all out mobilization and an overall ceiling on all prices, wages, and rents because of the Korean war.

Chairman Maybank (D) S.C., told newsmen after a two hour closed committee session that the group decided to offer a new section to Mr. Truman's bill specifically exempting farms as "facilities" which the President might seize in the national interest.

Maybank added:

"We discussed the Baruch plan, but agreed to take the pending bill up title by title first. Then we will consider any amendments, including the Baruch plan if it is offered."

Maybank said the declaration of policy in the administration bill was adopted with one phrase added to assume that the defense production program would be carried out, as far as possible, within the framework "Of the American system of competitive enterprise."

Nearly 1000 Bike Owners Fail To Have Them Tested

Approximately 1,000 of the 2,000 bicycles owned in New Castle remain to be inspected, although today was said to be the last day for inspection, according to inspectors.

Up to 10 a. m. today 1,032 bicycles had been inspected and found suitable for riders, and a registration plate was placed on them.

According to city ordinance, all bicycles must be inspected, and registrations procured by riders before they can be legally used.

A charge of 50 cents is made for the inspection and plate.

When the bicycles are inspected, the rider or owner receives a card, stating traffic regulations must be observed.

Some riders obey regulations and others do not.

It is likely Chief of Police Robert Hanna will be required to designate additional days for inspection, or the riders will use their bicycles illicitly.

Revive Theory Of Torso Murders Of 1930 In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, July 28.—(INS)—The theory of the Kingsbury Run torso murders of the 1930's was strongly revived in Cleveland today upon examination of the head of a torso victim, found in an east side field.

Coroner Samuel R. Gerber reported that first inspection of X-rays of the partly mummified head showed no sign of injury, indicating that the victim had been drugged or poisoned or that his attacker had grabbed him from behind and slashed his throat.

Dr. Gerber pointed out that the method of dismemberment led one to believe the original torsos had definite similarity to that used by the "mad butcher of Kingsbury Run". He said there is no definite proof of this, however.

Still a mystery is how the torso came to the Lakeside avenue storage yard, where it was found Saturday. It apparently had been dismembered about six weeks ago, but no wrappings were found.

Inmate Of State Penal Institutions Costs State $2.32 Per Day

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(INS)—Each inmate of a state mental institution costs the commonwealth an average of $2.32 a day, the State Welfare Department reported today.

The highest daily cost per inmate, $3.97, was listed for the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza with a population of 346.

The daily cost at Eastern State Penitentiary, with 3,052 inmates was $2.11; Western State Penitentiary, 1,941 inmates, $2.24; Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hill, 1,456 inmates, $2.34; Pennsylvania Institution for Defective Delinquents at Huntingdon, 857 inmates, $2.24; and State Industrial Home for Women at Muncy, 326 inmates, $3.09.

A department spokesman said that the average cost tends to decline as the number of inmates increases because fixed costs spread out over a greater total.

The costs include administration, care of inmates, instruction, food and supplies, plant and grounds, and agriculture, the spokesman said.

Replacements In Civil Defense Posts Ordered

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(INS)—Immediate replacement of all Army-Navy Reserve and National Guard officers holding key posts in Pennsylvania's civil defense system was ordered today by Judge Vincent A. Carroll, chief coordinator.

Letters to all county civil defense heads ordered the replacements completed by Tuesday.

Prior to the outbreak of the fighting in Korea, civil defense planners drew heavily on men with military backgrounds.

The present situation and need to maintain continuity of civil defense during such a critical period as a general mobilization of the civilian components, makes necessary a present adjustment of organization to provide the personnel who will remain in civil defense key positions after the emergency develops," Carroll stated in his letter.

One of the top men to be replaced is Lackawanna County Coordinator T. Linus Hoban, of Scranton, president judge of the common pleas court and assistant commander of the 28th Infantry Division.

Stamp Club Has Annual Outing

Members and friends numbering 40, representing the New Castle Stamp club, assembled at the New Wilmington Community Park for a picnic Thursday evening.

Wives in charge of the food committee included Mrs. John Hitch, Mrs. Glenn Anderson, Mrs. D. J. Pieper, Mrs. Durward Newhard, Mrs. Georgia Mooney.

A short business meeting was held and it was brought to the attention that the New Castle stamp exhibition will be held Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 21 and 22, at the Clinton Buick garage.

The next regular meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday, Aug. 10, at eight p. m., in which Glenn Anderson and John Wilson will be in charge.

WOMAN 103 YEARS OLD
BEAVER FALLS, July 28. Mrs. Dorothea Brandenberger reached her 103rd birthday today and says she's decided she's too old to do any more quilting.

That was one of her favorite pastimes. Now she likes best to "sit and watch the cars go up and down hill," at her Beaver county farmhouse near here, where she has lived for 55 years.

Mrs. Brandenberger's eight children and their families will attend a dinner in her home tonight. There also will be many visitors—she says she has had about 2,000 a year for the past three or four years.

South Koreans Express Grief At Deaths Of War Correspondents

IN KOREA, July 28.—(INS)—The South Korean national assembly today unanimously passed a resolution expressing grief at the death of two American correspondents killed July 10 near Chonan.

They were Ray Richards, International News Service war correspondent, and Ernie Peeler, correspondent for the Stars and Stripes.

Kim Dong Sung, national assembly spokesman, said the resolution read:

"Whereas in gallant United Nations forces fighting against the common aggressor in order to save democratic Korea, two correspondents sacrificed their lives on July 10, 1950, at the Chonan front, we it is resolved:

"The Korean national assembly expresses grief over the loss of our friends, Ray Richards and Ernie Peeler".

Man's Job Taken Over By Woman

DALLAS.—(INS)—When other little girls were dreaming about keeping house, Doris Fredericka Pitzinger, of Dallas, was thinking about building them.

Instead of dolls, she puttered around with drawing instruments and the engineering apparatus of her civil engineer father.

All of which probably had its effect on Doris, who recently became the first woman to graduate from the civil engineering department of the Texas School of Technology.

Doris says she has no worry in Production Of Turkey Pouls Tops '49 Mark

HARRISBURG—Production of turkey pouls was relatively large during the month of May, the State Department of Agriculture reports.

Federal-State surveys show that hatcheries of the country reporting on operations produced 14 per cent more turkey pouls in May than were produced during the same months last year. Output for the months of February, March, April and May of 1950 has been about seven per cent more than the number produced during those same months last year.

Aussie Whalers Now Making Comeback

WASHINGTON.—(INS)—Australia's whaling industry has flexed its sagging muscles for the first time in 20 years.

Keen-eyed Aussie sailors in whaleboat crow's nests are searching churning seas off western Australia and the icy calm of the Antarctic with new hope of snaring hundreds of humpbacks and blue whales.

A revitalization plan, announced earlier this year by the minister for commerce and agriculture and financed by the Australian legislature, has begun to turn the tide.

For example, the new government whaling station at Babage Island off western Australia plans to make an initial catch of 600 humpback whales this summer in nearby coastal waters.

Aussie harpooners sailing under Norwegian captains have already initiated their first assault on the 48-foot humpback whales, a smaller species of the mammal compared to the 90-odd foot blue whale found in the Antarctic.

Paul F. Magee, commercial attaché to the Australian embassy, said estimates are the 600 whales will give 4,500 tons of oil and 9,000 tons of by-products. Since Australia is faced with a severe oil and fat shortage the catch will more closely resemble the rainbow's proverbial pot of gold.

DELAYED USE

HOLLYWOOD.—(INS)—Ray Milland bought a 40-ton, 65-foot cabin cruiser the biggest boat he has ever owned, during his recent stay in Florida. But oddly enough, he may not get to enjoy the boat, or even see it again, until next year.

The boat is being brought to the west coast by way of the Panama Canal and, meanwhile, Ray and his wife are heading for Europe for an extended stay after he completes his latest picture, "Mr. and Mrs. Anonymous."

Unsurveyed Land Utah's Problem

SALT LAKE CITY.—(INS)—Increased developments of oil and mineral discoveries in Utah, including uranium ores, has aroused concern among state officials over unsurveyed public lands in the state.

Almost one-fourth of the land in Utah, or 12,700,000 acres, still is unsurveyed. The state cannot be allocated its share of the land, thus can receive no income from mineral leases and royalties, until the land is surveyed.

For the fiscal year of 1948, the state realized $237,000 from mineral leases on 2,500,000 acres of public land. At this rate, state officials explain, that already Utah has a vital financial interest in urging completion of the cadastral surveying.

When the land is surveyed, the state is allocated four sections of the 36 sections in each township. All revenue from such land goes to schools.

A resolution pending in congress would call for completion of the surveying by 1962. But state officials explain that already Utah has lost much revenue during the wave of oil leasing in past months, and will lose more in the next decade.

Ruth Roman Takes First In Poll On Shoulders

By MARALYN MARSH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—The gal with America's most sensuous shoulders, sultry Ruth Roman, came out on top in a poll conducted today by two Hollywood figure experts.

Poll takers are Mushy Callahan, muscle man, and Olga of Hollywood, bra magician who builds up beauties and keeps them under their peek-a-boo gowns.

The Roman shoulders are described thus:

"Vibrant with excitement—disturbing the senses and dilating the eye—hitting with a-bomb impact."

And what is more, Callahan whispers:

"Nervous people get hysterical when Ruth shoulders her way into view."

Reflect Character

Mushy claims shoulders reflect character—while Olga adds that they accentuate feminine beauty.

Virginia Mayo, lush blonde stem blinder, placed second because hers are "eloquent—almost articulate in expressiveness," according to the connoisseurs.

"They say yes, while she says no," explains Mushy, one-time boxing champion. The Mushy now busily builds film colony muscles.

Seven other glamor queens whose shoulders stack up into showing places in the race are:

Others In Race

Hildegard—"petulant and explosive, willing and defiant dynamic".

Mary Martin—"dangerous—sinful call to a happy doom".

Ginger Rogers—"super-charmed—a lode-stone for the eye".

Judy Canova—"curvesome beauty of an Ozark etour—square dance gleam in candlelight glow". "Heaven help those traveling salesmen," murmurs Mushy, casting the Canova shoulders.

No poll could be in tip-top shape without the appearance of those curve queens. Jane Russell and Marie Wilson, agree Olga and Mushy.

As Olga described: "Jane's shoulder are dynamic—emotional—inspirational".

"Very sexy"—Mushy's terse retort.

The Wilson pair are pegged as "alluring—shoulders that ensnare and enslave" by Olga, while Calahan's comment drops down into a low, breathy whistle.

"Lovely shoulders shape the course of history and the fate of nations," opines the gal of the uplifting inventions.

"And they often overshadow other physical endowments," Mushy figures.

Paris Designer Shocks World With Seductive Fall Dress Fashions

By NORA MARTIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 28.—Pari's youngest designer, Alwynn, proved his fashion maturity today by showing one of the most seductive and sophisticated collections yet seen in France's couture openings week.

Not only did he show draped, low-cut dresses—but vivid colored foundation garments to set them off!

Alwynn's "cut bosom" foundations encase models in violent violet nylon. They are shaped with super-narrow waists, rounded hips, and half-cup bras that accentuate the positively risque necklines of his autumn gowns.

The designer's gowns frequently have necklines slashed almost to the waist. His one-piece corsets are slashed accordingly.

Sunburst fullness below tightly wrapped hiplines are a trademark of Alwynn frocks. This fall, he makes skirts that fan out foreliness below the hips for daytime—and below the knees for evening.

For trimming, he uses narrow fur bands to edge necklines, lapels and cuffs.

And violet is his favorite fall shade, for outer as well as under wear.

Hoover Seeks Facts On Spies

FBI Head Instructs Citizens To Aid Work

By MARTHA KEARNEY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 28.—If you've spotted a traitor or a spy or a saboteur—tell it to the FBI and leave the rest to the G-men.

That is the advice of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who added in an official statement today that his agency is interested in facts, not malicious gossip or rumors.

Hoover's statement is in line with President Truman's directive calling upon individuals, organizations and law enforcement agencies to co-operate with the FBI in stamping out subversive activity.

Plan Operating

The FBI chief noted that "plans have already been made and are in operation whereby the law enforcement agencies of the nation are working in close co-operation with the FBI."

Hoover offered suggestions for individuals and organizations who believe they have information about subversive activity.

These include:

1. Communicate with the FBI by telephone or mail or call at the nearest office. The nearest office to you is listed on the first page of every telephone book in the United States.

2. In turning over information tell all details of the sabotage, espionage or subversive activity that you suspect.

3. The FBI is interested only in "receiving facts."

4. When you tell it to the FBI, drop the subject. Do not circulate rumors or begin to draw conclusion from your information.

5. Do not do your own investigating. Leave it to the FBI.

The FBI chief said the best watchmen of American freedom are workmen who are producing materials and weapons for defense. Hoover labeled them potential "sentinels of defense".

Hard to Identify

The top G-man observed that communists are hard to identify as such. He said their first concern, however, is the party line and the advancement of Soviet Russia.

Hoover told the public that "the internal security of the United States can be assured with the cooperation, aid and assistance of every law-abiding person in our nation."

In essence the FBI has revived this World War II slogan: "Tell it to the FBI"—then keep your mouth shut and go on about your business.

Embalming Schools Attack Regulation As Unconstitutional

HARRISBURG, July 26.—(INS) — Two Pittsburgh embalming schools have attacked as unconstitutional a regulation providing that an applicant for an undertaker's license must have two years' experience as an apprentice before he may attend an embalming school.

The H. E. Dolan College of Embalming, Inc., and the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science, Inc., contended yesterday in Dauphin County court that the state board of undertakers has exceeded its powers in attempting to enforce the rule.

Judge William E. Neely has taken the case under advisement.

Marine Corps Wants More Volunteers

Staff Sgt. James E. Rowe, Marine Corps recruiter in this area, stated today that the Marine Corps wants volunteers and that he feels a young man is better off if he takes the initiative in joining the service of his choice.

According to Sgt. Rowe, "there's a big difference between selective service and selecting the service that elects its men. The Leinenkugel's enlist only the finest of America's youth which means that not everybody can qualify. For those who can make the grade, however, there is the sense of pride in being a part of the team that has fought with distinction on every occasion."

Volunteers for service with the U. S. Marines will find the door to the recruiting office open seven days a week at Room 211, Post Office Bldg.

Highway Accidents Annually Destroy Small Rural Town

HARRISBURG, July 28.—(INS)

Highway accidents annually take the lives of a number of rural residents sufficient to form the population of an average Pennsylvania farmers' market town.

State Police Commissioner C. M.

Wilhelm made the comparison today in reporting that 7,300 rural residents were killed in traffic mishaps last year in the traffic.

Urging farmers to cooperate in National Farm Safety Week this week, he said that farmers can assist in highway safety by removing trees or shrubbery obstructing vision at driveway entrances cutting brush and weeds along fence rows and exercising care while running slow-moving farm machinery over highways.

Defense Planners Check Scientific Brainpower

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS)

Defense planners are reported to day to be compiling a roster of scientists and technicians for ready reference during the military expansion program.

The list will give the names, address and special skills of each man. The purpose is to make certain that scientific brainpower is put to the most effective use in the emergency.

Vocational Ag Boys In County Do Fine Jobs

Student Farmers Are Earning Way Reports Indicate

Vocational agriculture students in the three-county area of Lawrence, Beaver and Butler have done quite well for themselves during the past year, according to reports submitted to district vocational agriculture supervisor James C. Fink.

The district includes one school in Beaver county, four in Lawrence county and seven in Butler county, where vocational agriculture is taught in the rural high schools. The four Lawrence county schools include Union township, North Beaver township, New Wilmington and East Brook.

Boys who take the course are required to give a report on self-owned farm projects, and this year's program has been one of the best ever submitted.

Figures In Report

It showed that 246 students completed at least one project out of 406 enrolled, while 96 completed two projects, and 39 completed three projects. In all, 450 projects were completed, with a net profit of $48,363.59, including their own labor.

Gross receipts from these projects were $136,512.83, with charges of $95,430.61. Charged off as labor on these projects was $7,281.37, leaving a profit of $41,082.22.

The raising of poultry was the most profitable, bringing in $15,309, while the raising of corn came second, grossing $8,906.93. Next was the raising of swine, which brought receipts of $6,722.58, followed by dairy projects, which produced $6,075.41.

'Some Backsliders In Soviet Russia'

LONDON, July 28.—(INS)—A radio broadcast from Moscow indicated today that despite the united front presented to the outer world by Soviet propagandists there are still a few back-sliders within Russia itself.

The broadcast, intended for domestic listeners but heard in London, criticized those Soviet workers who are "still suffering from a number of faults which hamper their progress."

For an example, said the Russian commentator:

"There are . . . not an inconsiderable number of people who do not handle socialist property with care and there are even those who direct attempts at such property."

He added sternly:

"It is essential to wage a relentless struggle against such anti-state tendencies."

In another broadcast which was intended for foreign consumption, radio Moscow reported that the quota for the state plan for production and development had been exceeded by three percent in the second quarter of 1950.

The broadcast, which quoted the figures of the central statistical administration, added that there were several industries which did not fulfill production plan schedules.

Warns Against Farm Accidents

Clyde A. Zehner, chairman of the state PMA Committee joined many other agricultural leaders in warning against the economic loss resulting from accidents on the farm, in connection with Farm Safety Week.

Quoting figures made available by the National Safety Council, Mr. Zehner called attention to a survey of 2,000 farm accidents, showing the cause and number of days lost and the cost per accident in dollars and cents. Falls headed the list 476 accidents, with an average loss of 24 man days, and out-of-pocket loss of $45. Machinery stood next with 248 accidents, average days lost of 20, and monetary loss per accident of $61.

Accidents involving animals accounted for 233, and next in line stood: motor vehicles, handling objects, falling or flying objects, burns, and shock, with 153 accidents of unknown origin.

Mr. Zehner in conclusion urges farmers to keep all walkways and steps in good condition, unobstructed, and well lighted, and to follow rules of fact sheet in all things.

James G. Bell, Former Theater Manager Here, Moving To Grove City

James G. Bell, manager of the Penn and Victor theaters here until June 29, will succeed J. G. Cruthers as manager of the Lee and Guthrie theaters in Grove City on August 1.

Bell started in the theater business as an usher at the age of 14. During his 25 years in the business Bell has held just about every job that the theater has to offer, even having a state projectionist license.

Currently residing at 308 Berger place, Bell eventually plans to move his family to Grove City but explained that this would probably take two or three months as he has not been able to locate a house.

Mayor O'Dwyer Has Tough Time Starting New Television Tower

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS)—A host of celebrities gathered atop the Empire State building to watch Mayor William O'Dwyer drive the first rivet in a new television tower yesterday. But things went wrong.

First, the rivet, a special gold-plated job, disappeared. Then, after donning a safety helmet and posing for photographers with a rivet gun in his hand, the mayor was told he couldn't drive the substitute rivet that was located as a replacement. Powered by an inexperienced hand, it was explained, the gun might jolt the mayor and his friends off the roof.

After the mayor and his party left, work began in earnest. The TV tower, which will add 217 feet to the height of the world's tallest building, will be used by five stations and beam programs for a 52-mile radius.

Government Owned Stocks May Result In Breach

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS)—A dairy state senator contends that the existence of huge government-owned surpluses of dairy and other food products "may lead to a breach between farmer and consumer."

Democratic Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota, thinks ill feeling between the two groups may result from a continuation of high food prices on the open market. But he offers no solution.

Agriculture Secretary Brannan has asked Congress to authorize re-packaging of government-held foods to make them more attractive to possible recipients. He also urged government-paid transportation as one answer to the disposal problem. This two-fold program has an estimated cost of 50 million dollars.

Humphrey wants the Sewall subcommittee on food prices to investigate what he terms a "monopoly in the Oleomargarine industry," and to look into the "disparity between farm and consumer prices."

The agriculture department recommends—subject to growers' approval—a government marketing agreement and order program for the handling of Irish potatoes produced in Pennsylvania.

The program would authorize potato regulation by grade, size and quality. Minimum standards of quality and maturity on potatoes grown in the state would be established. Administration would be in the hands of a committee composed of local growers and handlers.

Pennsylvania growers will vote in a referendum to determine whether they favor or oppose the proposed program. Growers will be notified of the vote date.

The department reminds growers that failure to approve the proposed marketing order by a two-third majority will result in lack of price support on Pennsylvania potatoes.

A forest service expert advises owners of southeastern slash pine forest to manage their acres to produce not only naval stores but more pulpwood, sawtimber, fuelwood, poles and piling.

R. D. McCulley, government forester, says in a booklet he authored that the importance of harvesting a variety of products from slash pine has become increasingly evident to forest managers during the past few years.

According to McCulley, the demand for naval stores has gradually fallen off, while the demand for pulpwood and sawtimber has risen. He states that the various uses of slash pine for pulp, lumber and turpentine do not naturally supplement each other.

Recognizing that naval stores are a quick cash crop, McCulley goes on to say that cutting and turpentine can be integrated. He recommends careful selection of trees to be cupped. Interested owners can obtain McCulley's booklet free from the U. S. Forest Service, Washington, D. C.

Negotiations Meeting Scheduled Between AFL And Oriole Bus Company

PITTSBURGH, July 28.—(INS)—A negotiations meeting between Oriole Motor Coach Company and AFL Motor Coach Employes' Division 1063, was the only action scheduled today in the strikes of 500 drivers against six district bus lines.

State Mediator J. Edward Waldron and Federal Conciliator Charles R. Ward again expressed optimism that the session with Oriole might break the deadlock on wage demands.

Five union divisions struck against Oriole, Brentwood, Penn Transit, West Side, and Debolt May 18. The Harmony Short Line was struck May 2.

Management has consistently maintained a no wage raise policy. All firms are faced with an order from the Public Utility Commission to show cause why their operating certificates should not be revoked for failure to provide service.

LADIES DAY GOLF EVENT OF THURSDAY

A kind weather man crashed through with the most perfect day of the summer on Thursday and our rushed ladies of the New Castle Country club to take advantage of it.

"Operation Griper Holes" proved a challenge for the best as Mrs. Forrest Raffel came through to win the 18-hole round with Mrs. William Wallace in second place. For nine holes, Mrs. David Long triumphantly produced the lowest number of strokes, with Mrs. Franklin Clary as runner-up.

Tonight brings out the Scotch foreshortens again. So lead out the man in your life and join us on the fairways.

YOUNG MRS. HAVE ENJOYABLE PARTY

Members of the Young Mrs. club enjoyed an evening party at the home of Mrs. George Williams, East Washington street on Thursday.

Cards provided the pleasant diversion, with prizes captured by Mrs. Paul Morone and Mrs. Joe DeCarbo. Mrs. Frank Kirsch won the door prize.

A tempting lunch was later served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held August 10 at the home of Mrs. Frank Kirsch, 3 East Reynolds street.

The apple parer was invented February, 1803, by Moses Coats, Downingtown, Pa.

Yanks Smash Way Out Of Red Trap In Korea

By FRANK EMERY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ADVANCED AMERICAN COMMAND POST, KOREA, July 28—(INS)—Battle-worn, bearded First Cavalrymen who smashed back to join their comrades told today of their narrow escape from annihilation in a Communist trap.

The unit of 200 men was surrounded Monday night when communications with American front lines were cut off by infiltrating Reds.

That was before the Communists launched their "human sea" charge with wave after wave of troops striking toward American positions Tuesday.

Gen. MacArthur's mid-day communiqué Friday said that one company of the Eighth Cavalry regiment and one company of the 24th Infantry regiment who previously were surrounded had been relieved by strong counter-attacks.

(INS) War Correspondent Frank Conniff identified the First Cavalry division unit as F Company of the Eighth regiment.

Lts. Troy N. Pitts, McAlester, Okla., and Calvin R. Weeks, Savannah, Ga., smiled a bit as they related how the Communists captured ground behind their unit "forcing" it to knock out machine gun fire blocking the road back.

Weeks added:

Reds Sent Large Forces

"The North Koreans sent three large forces to contain the tiny American group."

Just before dawn of the second day in the trap the doughboys climbed quietly from their foxholes and assembled behind a wooded clump they had defended bitterly the day before.

The doughboys fought their way from there over a winding roadway with a steep hill on their left. In front of them was another hill, from which the enemy concentrated his fire power.

Lt. Gerald Wright, a veteran of European fighting, became the chief of the walking wounded. He led the crippled group to safety. He said:

"I was 123 days in continuous combat in Italy and I never encountered such fire power as in this trap."

The wounded lieutenant added that "we had no artillery, so what could we do but get out?"

The American withdrawal continued throughout the day and night. After a march through the mountains toward the main United States lines, the group found their ammunition was running out and they had no food. They were also slowed by two stretcher cases.

A captain estimated that the group, weak from lack of food and water, walked over 40 miles in their retreat. Four were known killed and others are missing, but some are expected to turn up."

Stragglers returning to the American lines reported seeing North Koreans knifing and shooting wounded Americans lying in muddy fields unable to move.

Chick Hatchery Output Is High

HARRISBURG—Continued expansion of the broiler industry in Pennsylvania has kept total output of baby chick hatcheries at high levels in spite of a weak demand for flock replacement chicks, the State Department of Agriculture announced following federal-state surveys of hatchery production for the month of May.

Commercial hatcheries of the state had an output of 7,870,000 chicks during May, 7 per cent below the same month a year previous and about 14 per cent below the 1944-48 average, the survey disclosed.

Production during the first five months of 1950 totaled 44,740,000 chicks, and last year 43,516,000.

The number of chicks produced by commercial hatcheries in the United States during May was more than 211 million, 18 per cent less than for the same month in 1949 and 12 per cent below average. Demand for broiler chicks was about the same as a year earlier but orders for flock replacement chicks were considerably under that of last year.

In Pennsylvania May prices for most straight run and pullet chicks were down from April but cockerel prices were higher.

WINNERS IN OVERSEAS WIVES CLUB BABY SHOW

"Oh You Beautiful Doll" might have been the theme song as babies of the Overseas War Brides paraded in the green room of the YWCA on Thursday evening.

Members of the club and their friends gathered in the green room of the YWCA for the event, with tiny tots, clad in sun-suits and dresses, competing for the cutest baby title.

A ribbon bearing the title of "U. N. Baby" was presented to the son of Mrs. Louis Toman of Ellwood City for being the cutest baby under one year of age.

Judged as the cutest boy and girl between one and three years of age was the daughter of Mrs. Louis Toman and the son of Mrs. Keller Cochran. In addition to their prizes, they received a crown and a corsage.

Corsages and boutonnieres were presented by the judges, Mrs. Roy Long, Mrs. Richard Marquis, Miss Emily Rice and W. F. DeCarbo.

Mrs. Harrison Ippolito and Paul Butz were in charge of the decorations. Refreshments were later served by Mrs. Keller Cochran, Mrs. Joe Buta and Mrs. Rosalina Oglette.

Sherman, however, said that careful cutting and editing will remove any regard for the rats.

Putting the rats on celluloid was tedious business. A trap would be baited to capture one of the rats and all the little cheese-eaters would do was look bored and glare at the camera.

A close study was made of the rats' home life. Effective filming could not start until the rats had been conditioned to the noise and floodlights.

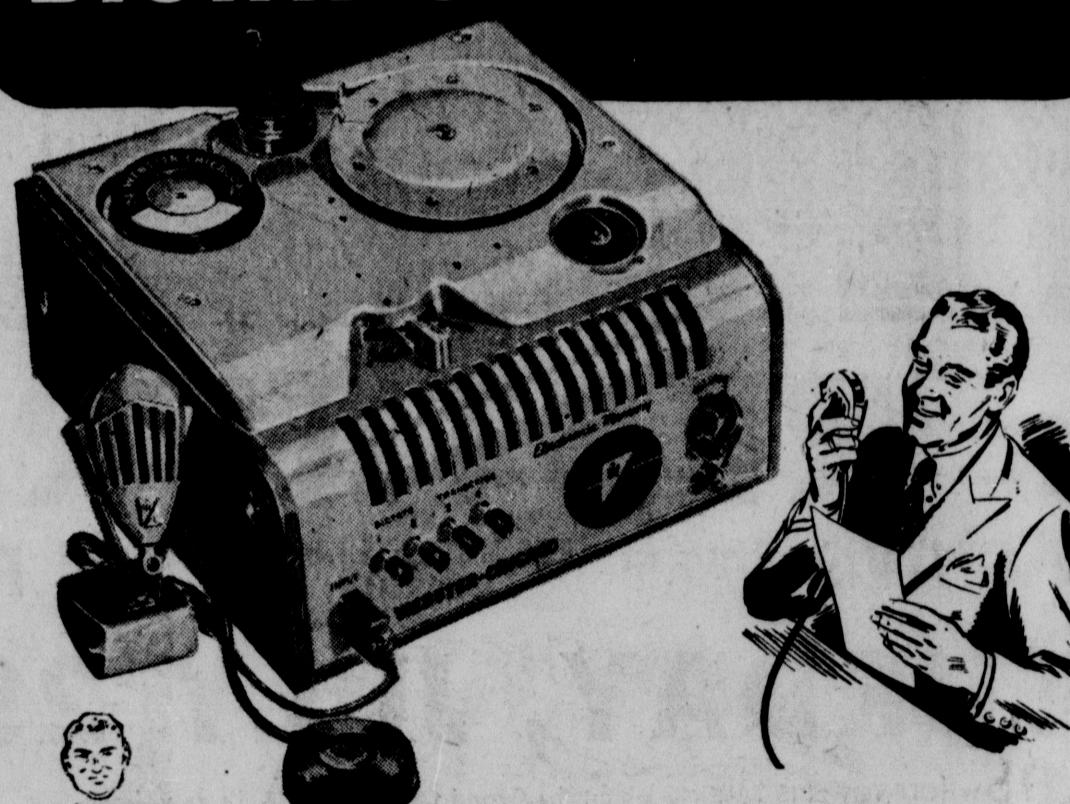

One scene called for recording a birth. No pregnant rat was on the "set". An expectant mother rat turned up in a trap in Atlanta, and was rushed to Savannah.

The rat stork lost in a close finish and the cameras had some valuable shots of a multiple birth.

Make Reunion Reservations

Ward School Event
Wednesday, August 2

Mrs. Helen Adams, of 108 West Madison avenue, who is in charge of the reservations of Mahoningtown school reunion to be held on August 2, states that she has received quite a number of reservations from out of town folks, but the local reservations are rather slow coming in. Mrs. Adams would be glad to have the reservations of those who intend attending, as soon as possible, which will be of great help to the committee of arrangements.

The group will meet in Mahoning school at 2 o'clock.

This year, there will be no picnic dinner, but instead, a dinner will be served to the reunion group, in the dining room of Mahoning Methodist church, at 6:30 o'clock.

Ask Library Patrons
Return Books Loaned

Miss Mary Lou Fulker, librarian at free library in Mahoningtown, states that some folks in the ward are neglecting to return books they have borrowed from the library, within the specified time. Should patrons of the library require more than two weeks to complete reading a book, they are required to come to the library and have the librarian give them an extension of time.

There is a state library law which imposes a heavy penalty upon persons not returning books which have been loaned from the library.

The library room wall has been recently cleaned, and given a brighter look.

Renovations Made At Mahoning Methodist

At Mahoning Methodist church, painting of the outside woodwork is in progress, and will be a marked improvement. It is reported that the inside work has been completed, and improvements made in the dining room.

Ward Volleyball

Team Wins Thursday

On Mahoningtown playground, the volleyball teams of Shenango and Mahoningtown clashed on Thursday afternoon, about two o'clock. The games were spirited, with lots of action, but the girls of the ward team outplayed their opponents, and captured the three games.

Don Black, one of the local supervisors, was the referee, and did a good job.

This afternoon, Mahoningtown team will have the Croton playground team as opponents.

Thursday afternoon, young folks were busy playing basketball, and "tennis", and using the swings.

Miss Gerry Ginsberg, another of the supervisors, states that handicraft will be done this afternoon. Articles will be made with gimp, such as bracelets, key chains, etc.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADIGIT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, July 27.—It was a great day for both Jean Hersholt and the old timers at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer when that veteran actor reported for work at the Culver City lot after an absence of 14 years.

The Danish-born film figure, now known as Hollywood's first citizen, made some of the most memorable motion pictures in film history for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Now he is back to play one of the leads in the seven-part "It's a Big Country," that the studio is making. Hersholt appears in the episode entitled "Load," opposite

"I hardly didn't intend to make another film soon," said the actor, "but when M-G-M sent me the script of 'Load,' I could not resist. It is a fine story and my role is an actor's dream."

When the M-G-M lot used to be known as the Triangle studio, Hersholt starred in the first black and white sage filmed there. It was "The Servant in the House," which Jack Conway directed in 1917.

Hersholt's very first film was made in 1906 and it was also the first picture made in Denmark.

Working in pictures today is a far cry from the day when I started," Hersholt recalled. "Then it took me two hours on a street car and then a couple of miles walking to get to work. But I have loved every minute of it."

Played Villain Roles

During his heyday as a top Metro star, Hersholt appeared as the villainous Marcus in "Greed," the controversial picture made by Erich Von Stroheim. The picture in its uncut version ran 11 hours and it was stark tragedy from the opening scene to the last. The film made movie history and still is being shown as a classic.

Other M-G-M pictures to Hersholt's credit included "Men in the Bible," "Dinner at Eight," "Grand Hotel," "Abie's Irish Rose," and his most recent there, "His Brother's Wife," which starred Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor during their courtship days.

After appearing in a number of Dr. Christian films, Hersholt temporarily retired from the screen to devote his full time to the activities of the motion picture arts and sciences.

American Woman Prepares For Attempt To Swim Channel

WISSANT, France, July 28.—(INS)—Florence Chadwick, America's "determined lady," prepared today to make the year's first attempt to swim the English channel and hopes to do it in world record time.

The San Diego-born champion of Pacific coast rough water events, who admits being "past 31" plans to take a crack at the channel on or about August 4.

Florence, a woman scorned, is anxious for the success of her attempt for more than the usual reasons. She wants to "show up" a London newspaper sponsoring an international channel swimming race.

The newspaper brushed off the American mermaid by rejecting her application to enter the contest.

Crabs Take Over Island Outpost

RIO DE JANEIRO—(INS)—What was a strategic outpost during the war is now only a crab infested island which the Brazilian government is contemplating turning into a fishing colony.

The tiny (five square miles) island of Trindade lies 600 miles off the coast of Victoria and 780 miles from Rio de Janeiro.

It has been used at different times as a penal and political prisoner colony and was twice occupied by the British who returned it by treaty after much diplomatic haggling. During the last war it was occupied by a navy garrison.

When the navy pulled out, all further interest in Trindade was lost and the island sank back into oblivion until someone mentioned its fishing possibilities to twentieth century pioneer Joao Alberto Lins de Barros.

Joao Alberto, after heading a mammoth exploration and colonization expedition into the Brazilian hinterland, was looking around for new frontiers. Trindade seemed a possibility.

He proposed to the government that a complete scientific survey be made of the island with a view to planting a fishing colony there. The government agreed to finance the expedition and lent him two light destroyers.

Senate Sets Up 'Watchdog' Over Rearming Plans

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(INS)

A new senate war investigating subcommittee was set up today as a congressional "watchdog" over the administration's program for rearming America against communism.

Tydings added:

"In the minds of all of us, the looming possibility of World War III is ever present."

Tydings said the investigators will serve as watchdogs for the emergency 10.5 billion dollar weapons program which President Truman has asked. This request is in addition to 13 billions in military funds carried by the omnibus appropriations bill.

Sen. John Johnson (D) Texas, named to head the continuing probe, made it clear that the group will make periodic check-ups on war production.

Johnson said part of the job will be the breaking of bottlenecks which might retard munitions production.

The Texan declared:

"This will take priority over all other matters. Our job will be to see that the defenses of the country are in jurisdiction. We will try to exercise jurisdiction over the military's expansion. Lives and money are involved."

Unit Is Named

Senate armed services chairman Tydings (D) Md., in appointing the investigating unit, declared that the war in Korea confronts the nation with an "emergency of the gravest nature."

Tydings added:

"In the minds of all of us, the looming possibility of World War III is ever present."

Tydings said the investigators will serve as watchdogs for the emergency 10.5 billion dollar weapons program which President Truman has asked. This request is in addition to 13 billions in military funds carried by the omnibus appropriations bill.

Dryest Voting, Wettest Drinking

TULSA, Okla., July 28—(INS)—The brewer's big white horses will not run over me—or you, either—in the highways and byways of this great commonwealth: Oklahoma is dry territory.

But a body has to step mighty lively in this region to get out of the way of motorized speakeasies-on-wheels as they race through the streets on their way to deliver life-giving potables to deserving (cash) customers.

Dryest Voting, Wettest Drinking

This is one of the dryest voting, wettest drinking states in U.S.A. The United Dries and the W.C.T.U. seem to have a stranglehold on the vote, and the United Topers a death grip on the bottle. It is a system that seemingly makes almost everybody happy, since each has what he wants, including a high-rolling, western-style hangover that puts to shame the mere pink elephanthead and DT's of the effete East.

Cocktail parties are as much a fixture of polite society here as on Park Avenue and have replaced the neck-tilt soiree vigilante gatherings of yesteryear for both sociality and excitement.

This state has been dry, politically, since the memory of man runeth not to the contrary, but by no stretch of the imagination has it ever been a drought or dust bowl area.

Has Gone So Far

In recent years, Oklahoma has gone so far as to legalize the sale of beer, but during the last state election, when the sophisticates in Tulsa and Oklahoma City felt certain they had at last rounded up enough votes to repeal the prohibition law, they awoke the day after election to find that the die-hard dries from the crossroads had won again.

"This made me so mad," explained a prominent Tulsa citizen as we sample the bourbon and ditch at a cocktail party," that I said I'd be damned if I didn't go down to the capitol at Oklahoma City and work for the passage of a law like they have in Mississippi, which is dry, too, but where they tax the bootlegger's profits.

"But as I was on my way to the railroad station," he continued, "I got to thinking that if such a law was passed, I'd just have to pay more for corn squeezins'. And I said to myself 'Hell, man, don't be a fool' and I turned around and went back to my office and to minding my own business."

Completely Passe

The old stationary speakeasy, as refined and perfected in New York during the noble experiment, is completely passe in Oklahoma. Thanks to the internal combustion engine, the mobile speak is one of the finer flowerings of this border state.

As I pound the typewriter, there is before me a scarlet card about the size of the old speak cards of the 'twenties. At the top of the card is printed a telephone number and beneath it the current price of

GIVING PARTY FOR BRIDE
"My niece is to be married in the fall. Some of her friends are giving her showers. I feel that I should do something for her. She is a very popular girl and will leave the city after her marriage. Can you suggest something?"

Answer: Why not give a party for her, either a tea, cocktail party (if you and your niece "go in" for that sort of thing) or an evening party. Ask her for a list of her friends she wishes invited and invite some of your own if you so desire.

Question: If finger bowls are to be used, where should they be placed?

Answer: At formal dinners, finger bowls are brought in after the dessert plates have been removed, bridal receiving line: The bride stands to the right of the groom; they may be brought in on the dessert plate. The dessert silver also is brought in on this plate, the spoon on the right, and the fork on the left. The guest should lift the silver and the finger bowl along with the doily from the plate, placing the spoon on the right and the fork on the left and the finger bowl to the left of the plate, thus leaving the plate ready for the dessert.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

HARRISBURG, July 28—(INS)—

New importance has been added to the election of a governor and state legislators in Pennsylvania in No-census figures. . . Regardless of which party controls the legisla-

the majority party attempts to

Maj. Gen. Charles C. Curtis, who

Services Of Newspaper Are Discussed By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1950—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 28.—I have just been reading a most interesting advertisement of a great steel company. In effect, it constitutes a report of the progress this company has made in its production of steel plates for ships, bombs and other war materials. This company has nothing whatever to sell to the general public, but it chooses to buy considerable newspaper space to give the people some most encouraging facts.

Reliance and Returns

The public has come to rely upon advertisements. In countless instances people make it a practice to read the ads first and the news stories second. Naturally, there is some waste in advertising, but 90 per cent of it is to the good. The merchant who pays a bill for advertising expects his ad to "pay its way". The return in merchandise sales per dollar spent for space is carefully watched.

In certain types of copy featuring the sale of shoes, dresses and various other articles of consumer goods, a merchant thinks he can determine an hour after his store opens for business whether or not the advertisement is a success. He fools himself by trying to do this. Statistics show that money spent on one daily newspaper advertisement will be a factor in increasing sales for a period of some months ahead.

Advertising and Taxes

Merchants who cut down advertising appropriations at this time are making a great mistake. Not only do all merchants now need more sales, but those who advertise now get more attention when their competing merchants are not advertising. Now is the time to advertise.

One of the best ways to avoid the "boom or bust" policy would be for congress to allow a special tax reduction as an incentive for five-year contracts for advertising expenditures. Then instead of merchants spending freely in good years, with very little left for lean years, the advertising appropriations would be spent over a five-year period. This would do much to keep business on an even keel which is what we especially need today.

Move To Preserve British Mansions

LONDON—(INS)—Proposals to preserve the "irreplaceable" stately homes of Britain are contained in a report now being studied by Sir Stafford Cripps.

Entitled "Houses of Outstanding Historic or Cultural Interest," the report warns the Chancellor of the Exchequer that unless financial first aid is given quickly, many famous houses with outstanding architecture will be torn down.

The report thinks that possibility as "a disaster comparable only to that which the country suffered by the dissolution of the monasteries in the 16th century."

Although the committee of seven which formulated the report was set up by Sir Stafford himself, they mince no words in criticizing three of Sir Stafford's favorite methods of extracting money, namely estate duty, income tax and surtax, for causing the breakup of big estates.

Service Rendered By Newspapers

Newspapers are vastly important to retailers, manufacturers and the city itself than merely increasing sales. All kinds of civic and social organizations rely upon free notices of their activities. We all have more of a stake in the business of advertising than we realize.

Our papers not only give us the news each day but the growth of our cities depend upon the prosperity of our local newspapers.

Washington certainly owes a debt to all newspapers whether editorially they are "for" or "against" the administration.

Successful manufacturers are carrying on a most sensible campaign of paid publicity with one chance of now getting their money back through immediate increased sales. I hope more local firms will take advantage of the opportunities to advertise which are offered today. Yes, I am optimistic for advertising for those who will stick to it "rain or shine". Sensible continuous advertising is the best investment there is.

Advertising and Taxes

Merchants who cut down advertising appropriations at this time are making a great mistake. Not only do all merchants now need more sales, but those who advertise now get more attention when their competing merchants are not advertising. Now is the time to advertise.

One of the best ways to avoid the "boom or bust" policy would be for congress to allow a special tax reduction as an incentive for five-year contracts for advertising expenditures. Then instead of merchants spending freely in good years, with very little left for lean years, the advertising appropriations would be spent over a five-year period. This would do much to keep business on an even keel which is what we especially need today.

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Good Timing

Everyone thinks of Mrs. Burgess as a top-notch mother. Though her youngsters are well-behaved, they're not subdued and there's always a pleasant atmosphere when the family clan are together.

Not long ago, I asked her what she considered to be the most important points in bringing up children.

"I really haven't thought about it very much," she answered. "I'm not sure that I could say. But there is one thing I'm very careful about—my timing."

Naturally I asked her what she meant and was very much impressed with her answer.

"You see," she said, "I tried to remember how I used to feel when I was a child. One of the things I hated was to be corrected or scolded in front of other people. So, I try hard to hold my tongue when one of the youngsters be-

What Do You Want To Weigh? Just Pick Out Right Scales

One begins to speculate if possibly the forces of gravity are a little stronger or maybe a little weaker in some sections of Washington street.

Your reporter while strolling down main street noticed the many scales in front of various places of business on which he might weigh himself.

Mounting the first scale, he found it registered 220 pounds on the nose.

This was quite flattering since the bathroom variety had told him that he weighed approximately 225.

Not fully convinced he tried five more which ranged from subtle flattery to down right insult, for these were the results: 226, 228, 230, 234, and 236 pounds.

Doctor Warns U.S. To Prepare For A-Bombing

Says Bomb Victims Would Need More Aid Than Can Be Offered

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, July 28.—A medical authority warned today that physicians and the lay public are almost totally unprepared to care for atomic bomb victims and predicted:

"The handling of large numbers of burn casualties after an atomic bomb attack on any of our cities must necessarily end in complete chaos and panic, with the accompanying inexcusable loss of many lives which otherwise might have been saved."

The warning came from Dr. Everett I. Evans, a member of the National Research Council's committee on atomic casualties. He cited in an article in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association:

"If any large American city suffers atomic bomb attack the number of burn casualties will tax all preparations authorities are likely to be able to provide."

"A disturbing feature of all disaster planning for burn care is the seeming complexity of this care even when it is reduced to the barest essentials."

Few Trained

"More disturbing is the plain truth that so few physicians and fewer lay persons are trained in even the simplest methods of burn care."

Dr. Evans is professor of surgery at the Medical College of Virginia and was surgical consultant to the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission which studied effects of the blasts at Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

He added that of almost equal importance with trained personnel is the development of a plasma substitute.

"Any calculation," explained Dr. Evans, "of the number of burn casualties to be expected in atomic attack results in requirements . . . for reserves of plasma and whole blood in such large amounts as to make it almost out of the question ever to expect such supply for immediate delivery to a stricken city."

"For this reason alone I consider it imperative that search for a safe, effective, easily stored plasma substitute be started at once."

Mayo Research

(Some promising research along these lines already has been begun at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., a preliminary report of the Mayo research using a sugar industry by-product known as dextran was published several weeks ago.)

Dr. Evans said that with even the most careful preparation "havoc will prevail" in the zone nearest the bomb burst.

In the outer zone, however, burns will be confined to the exposed parts of the body and these, he declared, would be treated by properly trained first aid workers. He added:

"In the intermediate zone, more highly trained and larger numbers of persons will obviously be required. Physicians trained in the therapy of shock and applications of dressings will be needed in large numbers."

Dr. Evans concluded:

"No matter how lightly or conservatively one views the 'burn problem' which will confront a city recovering from an atomic bomb attack, the one conclusion permissible is that it will be stupendous."

Austrian Hobbies In For Hard Time

VIENNA—(INS)—Viennese husbands are crying in their beer these days — the government is building a king-size doghouse for them.

They soon may be forced — Parliamentary law—to don an apron and wash the supper dishes if the little woman says the word.

A government commission urging revision of the outdated Austrian "Family Laws" has come up with the "Joint household responsibility" suggestion after five months of study.

Austrian Minister of Justice Otto Tschadak, commission chief, said that plan to give mother a voice in the family is only one of a 14-point program which if adopted by Parliament would change the nation's 139-year-old laws governing relation of husband and wife.

Some other items, recommended by the commission of purists, professors and government planners:

The wife is the breadwinner, it's her right to say where the family will live.

In any case, she should have equal rights in determining the upbringing of the children. Whether junior will be a football player or a pianist. Or whether he gets spanked or not.

She'll have a say in family business matters. (As the law stands, Pop has legal authority over his wife's possessions.)

She could hold a job without interference from her husband. (Now, he can go to her boss and demand that she be fired.)

One concession for the harried husband remains. The commission said—without comment—that "the wife, upon marriage, will continue to take the name of the husband."

First American Marines in European waters during the Revolution were those aboard the "Reprisal," which took Benjamin Franklin to France in 1776 and later captured several British prizes.

Some 250,000 patients are admitted to American mental institutions each year.

Japanese Actor Sued By Soprano

TOKYO—(INS)—Sessue Hayakawa, globe-trotting Japanese screen actor who recently staged a comeback in two Hollywood productions, is being sued for the return of $40,000 he allegedly obtained from a once-wealthy Japanese soprano in Paris 13 years ago.

Michiko Tanaka, now the wife of German screen and stage star Viktor de Kowa, has written a Tokyo attorney from Berlin directing him to produce in Paris.

to start proceedings against Hayakawa, who is now in Japan.

She claims she gave Hayakawa furs and jewels valued at $40,000 to help him overcome financial difficulties in the French capital in 1937.

Miss Tanaka has buttressed her mail order claim against Hayakawa with a note from him promising to repay her in 1950 as well as pawnshop tickets covering the articles.

Hayakawa promptly denied Miss Tanaka's allegations and claimed the money represented her investment in a motion picture entitled "Macao" which Hayakawa was then producing in Paris.

Ask Location Of Old Sirens

Whatever happened to the sirens used for air raid warnings in World War number two?

This isn't just a quest for information or out of curiosity. Judge W. Walter Braham, Co-ordinator of the Lawrence County Defense Council would like to know where they are and if possible salvage some of them for the council.

Some of them undoubtedly went to volunteer fire departments over the county. Others may be laying around a barn or down a cellar.

Under the new defense set-up the probabilities are that sirens will be needed. Those that are now serving some useful purpose would be left alone but there may be some that can be put back into service.

The News would like to know where they are, where they were used, and what purpose they are serving now.

Persons having information about the old sirens are asked to send the information along to the New Castle News.

I. And J. Will Open New Restaurant

Bad fires do not always result in permanent serious consequences. As a matter of fact, New Castle will have a larger, and better restaurant as a result of the blaze that destroyed the Clendenin building on February 27.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Smith operated the restaurant in the New Castle Drug Co. store on Washington and Mercer streets before the disaster. On Saturday, July 29, this couple will open a large modern restaurant at 140 E. Long avenue.

The new restaurant will be equipped with the most modern and most sanitary facilities available. It will have a seating capacity of 100 patrons.

Ever since the fire, the Smiths have been asked numerous times when they would reopen. Saturday is the day and the Smiths will gladly welcome all of their old customers and some new ones to the new location.

The restaurant will be open until 1 o'clock every morning except Sundays. At present the I. and J.'s restaurant will be closed on Sundays.

In addition to having a beautifully appointed restaurant, I. and J.'s will also operate a Kosher delicatessen. Strictly Kosher corned beef will be available by the pound or for sandwiches.

The kitchen will be under the personal supervision of Mrs. I. J. Smith.

Coronation Held At Colorful Show On Harbor Grounds

Even uninvited showers did not daunt the spirit and enthusiasm of the large crowd that gathered for the coronation exercises which took place at Harbor playground Wednesday afternoon.

The procession was lovely and picturesque as the queen, king and attendants proceeded to an attractive throne amidst a setting of greenery and summer flowers.

Miss Ida May Suber, queen of 1950, presented a pretty picture in her gown of white lace and carrying a summer bouquet, a donation from a merchant. Tom Swikert was crowned king of the season. Both had been chosen on a basis of popularity, and the crowd that gathered only added to substantiate their popularity. Each received a crown from Susie White, queen of 1949, who was wearing a gown of green marquisette. She was presented with a bouquet from the new queen.

Runner-ups in the contest, Kay Cutchall and William White, presented the king and queen with a half point pen and billfold, also donations. Flower girl was Diane Demco, and crown bearers were Carol Johnson and Mike Herberg.

The court included the following girls who looked lovely in their long gowns and carrying bouquets: Kay Cutchall, Sandra Herberg and Sandra Henning. Boys who lent their moral support to the king were: William White and Frank Palott.

Miss Jeanne Wallace, playground instructor and the playground members and guests enjoyed pop, ice cream and cookies that had been donated by local merchants.

Mr. Joseph Suber was general chairman of the coronation exercises and through her effort, a party was held for the children.

Mrs. Carl White was in charge of decorations and aides were Mrs. James Goodrich, Mrs. Eugene Johnson, Mrs. James Herberg, Mrs. Alvin Herberg, and Mrs. Fred McCummins. Carl White and L. Pears also lent a helping hand.

Special guests included Rees Flannery, recreational director, and children, Donna and Bobby, and Mrs. Phyllis Walton of Whitton LeWear, England.

A hobby show will be the special feature of Wednesday, August 2, at 2:30 o'clock.

U.S. Concerned Over Rich Iran

Tension All Along Russian Border

By WILLIAM THEIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 28—(INS)—United States sources are reported to be concerned today over the possibility of defending strategic Iran in event the Cominform decides to make that the next point of attack.

Speculation in past weeks has centered on Iran as one of the possible areas where Russian strategy might call for an offensive. Iran's position is often regarded as similar to that of Korea, excepting that any attack would have to be launched by the Soviet Union itself.

There has been continuing tension along the Russian-Iranian border ever since the United Nations forced Russia in 1946 to withdraw occupation troops from the wartime supply line running through Iran.

Border Incidents

Reports reaching Washington indicate that at least 100 Iranian soldiers die each year in border incidents.

The reports have lessened within the past two months. Some observers fear that the Soviet forces are remaining quiet prior to launching an all out surprise attack.

While Iran's oil production has generally been considered the chief prize, officials no longer regard this resource as important to the West as to the Russians.

Border tensions in Iran are reported to have been supplanted by increasing internal pressure. The outlawed Tudeh party, completely pro-Russian, is said to be the most effective political party in the land.

Gaining Recruits

The party is said to be gaining recruits daily through its clandestine press.

While Iranian troops are reported to be well trained and disciplined, they have not yet proved themselves in battle.

But the natural dislike of the Iranians for the Russians is said to be such that guerrilla warfare would cost the Reds a heavy military commitment.

The fact that the British are negotiating for payments of heavier oil royalties to Iran is expected to strengthen the country against Russian aggression. In the event of occupation, there would be no royalties.

EXAGGERATION

RIO DE JANEIRO—(INS)—Brazil's foremost geologist says the estimates of the size of his country's deposits of manganese—the metal vital in the manufacture of steel—are "vastly exaggerated." Dr. Glycon de Paiva warned that more than fifty years of intensive mining have seriously depleted Brazil's natural supplies of the important ore, and that they will be completely exhausted in another fifty years, at the present rate of consumption.

Start Piling For Last Pier Of New Bridge

Work has been started on driving the last of the piling for the west pier of the new bridge, which will cross the Neshannock from Grove street to South Jefferson street.

The concrete for the foundations of the east and mid-stream piers has been poured, and it will take another week or so to drive the piling for the west pier, after which the work is expected to progress a little more rapidly.

Work of tearing out the concrete wall along the west bank of the creek proved quite difficult, as it was built with reinforcement, and it was necessary to blast out some of the wall.

Says Army To Be Increased To 834,000 Men

By DARRELL GARWOOD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 28—Chairman Vinson (D) Ga. of the House Armed Services Committee announced today that the Army will be increased by 224,000 officers and men to a total of 834,000 during the next year.

The announcement came after a closed meeting in which Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff, outlined the Army's stepped-up preparedness program, which calls for an outlay of $3,059,154,000 from the $10,500,000,000 emergency defense funds asked by the president.

Meanwhile, draft officials set to work to call to the colors the 100,000 men requested by the Army during September and October.

Vinson said the army will get its 244,000 reinforcements through the draft, enlistments, and a call-up of reservists and national guardsmen.

The 834,000-man army will be 3,000 men short of the statutory strength permitted by law. The ceiling, however, is expected soon to be lifted.

An effective way of taking the power out of cults such as "voodoo," the pamphlet says, would be to bring them into the open and give them a place in local folklore.

ices and the education of women and girls.

Advice is also given on the training of field workers, the preparation of education materials and administration and finance.

Concerning health education, the pamphlet states that where disease is accepted passively and ascribed to an evil fate or to witchcraft the attitude of the people might immediately be changed by curative medicine, although what is good in the traditional beliefs should be preserved.

Draft Threat Doesn't Stop American Humor

CLEVELAND, July 28—(INS)—Some people can always find a place for humor, even when they are threatened with a call from the Draft Board.

A clerk at Board 19 reported that she received a post card yesterday addressed to "Board 19, opposite the Roxy," a Burlesque House. It read:

"I neglected by duty, I must confess. I never did tell you my change of address.

"One four eight one nine on Westropp before, now two 0 three five on South Lake Shore.

"Don't look around in Cleveland for me, I now reside in Euclid, 23.

"Sorry to cause you such a fuss, signed Edward Anthony Ribbins."

Report Bette Davis To Be Married Today

HOLLYWOOD, July 28—(INS)—International News Service has been informed by a reliable source that Bette Davis is to be married today to Gary Merrill, the handsome screen newcomer who played opposite her in her latest picture, "All About Eve."

The ceremony is to take place across the border from El Paso, Texas, in Juarez, the Mexican Greta Green for film industry celebrities.

It was there that Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini were married by proxy some weeks ago.

Merrill's former wife, Barbara Leeds Merrill, obtained a California divorce from him two days ago, charging that he insulted her in front of guests. However, that decree does not become final for a year.

So before the personable young leading man becomes Miss Davis' fourth husband he is getting a divorce of his own, in Juarez.

It will be the same kind of a decree that the big-eyed star obtained recently from William Grant Sherry, the wrestler and artist who now plans to marry their daughter's nurse early next month.

The ceremony is testing powdered aluminum in place of gasoline in planes in hope it will increase range of jets.

HARRISBURG.—Records that are far ahead of the previous test have been announced at the end of the seventh month of the 1949-50 Pennsylvania Official Egg Laying Contest sponsored by the State Department of Agriculture.

Compared with the first seven months of the 1948-49 test, the current laying record is 194,733 eggs or 4,638 ahead, the Department said.

Points earned by the more than 1,200 birds in the contest total 204,040 or 5,737 in advance of the previous contest. The average number of eggs per bird on test is 151.46 for the seven-month period, 3.76 eggs higher than the 1948-49 test. Points per bird average 158.5 or 4.18 ahead.

The leading contest entry is a hen of Single Comb White Leghorns owned by the Darby Leghorn Farm, Somerville, N. J., with 2,766 eggs and 2,867 points.

Three United States Presidents, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt, have been honored with statues in London.

Women Education Big UN Problem

LONDON—(INS)—The ignorance of women in the underdeveloped areas of the world is cited by a United Nations group as one of the problems which must be urgently tackled.

A pamphlet issued by the U. N. educational scientific and cultural organizations says:

"This ignorance not only impedes improvement in the health of the people and the betterment of homes but deprives men of the companionship of marriage and future generations of enlightened motherhood."

The pamphlet, first of a series, covers literacy campaigns, language teaching, the use of films and radio, library and museum services.

Red Hot Phils And Tigers Hold Game And Half Leads Today

Simmons Pitches 14th Victory, Then Picks Up PNG Uniform

By HOWARD SIGMUND
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS) Simmons, the stout-hearted lefty with the deadly curve ball who cost the Philadelphia Phillies a $60,000 piece of change, has the distinction today of being the National Guardsman with the most Major League victories.

The lefthander won his fourthteenth game as against five losses yesterday when he hurled the whiz kids to a 13 to 3 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. He became the first National League flinger to reach that mark this season.

Curt and the Phils will have to wait a couple of weeks before he can pitch again. He will report tomorrow for his annual training at a National Guard encampment. The victory left Philadelphia one and a half games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals.

St. Louis Wins

Brooklyn managed to horse-collar Stan Musial but the rest of the Cardinals rose up in the last three innings to score a dozen runs for a 13 to 3 victory over the Dodgers. Musial was blanked at the plate after hitting safely in thirty straight games.

Warren Spahn pitched the Boston Braves to a 5 to 3 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Beantowners moved back into third place ahead of the Dodgers. It was the lefthanders twelfth win. The Giants and Reds were not scheduled.

Tigers Top Sox

Dizzy Trout hurled the Detroit Tigers back on the win track. The veteran righted down the Boston Red Sox 5 to 1, on nine hits.

Detroit's American League lead was upped to a game and a half when the St. Louis Browns stopped the New York Yankees, 3 to 2.

Indians Scalped

Lou Bresie ended Cleveland's domination of the Philadelphia Athletics when he bested the Indians, 7 to 2 with a four-hitter.

The Washington Senators used three hits to beat the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2 in the first game and then Randy Gumbert drew the Paleose even by downing the Nats 6 to 3 in the nightcap.

First Baptists Hang Onto Lead

Standings in the Church golf league remain unchanged after Thursday night's play at Castor Hills.

First Year Star

The former Pitt university terminal was one of the best rookie ends in the National Professional league last year. After graduating from Pitt, where he had been a star for four years and captain his last, Bill was signed by Paul Brown and the Cleveland Browns. He was an early season sensation with the Browns but finally was let go because of a surplus of end talent that included Dante Lavelli, Mac Speedie, and "Jumbo" Yonakar.

He was immediately signed by the Steelers and distinguished himself with outstanding defensive play against the "big boys" of the league that included Steve Van Buren, Billy Dudley, Charley Trippi and Bob Waterfield.

Merger Helps All

Bill feels that the Steelers will be a much stronger team this year but does not know how they'll fare against the other clubs which have also been strengthened by the merger of the NUF league and the All-American conference.

Bill says that there should be a surplus of talent and some very good material available via waivers if the Steelers find that they are weak in a certain position.

Jewish Vets Present Sets At Deshon

Joe Brown, commander, Jewish War Veterans of Lawrence county, last night at Deshon Veterans hospital, Butler, presented to Chief Special Service officer Leo T. Neiman, five television sets for veterans in which disabled veterans are confined.

The disabled vets were so enthused with the gift, realized from a pro wrestling show here, they signed a special card of appreciation, and presented it to Brown in behalf of Post 136, J.W.V. Lawrence county, and cooperating service organizations.

Among those who witnessed the presentation were:

Mayor John F. Haven, City Treasurer B. N. Hanlon, Streets Director E. Gene Schweinsberg, of the 40 & 8, and American Legion; City Registration Clerk Edward Longacre; County Registration Clerk Louis Conn; Safety Director Dick Davis; Eddie DeCarbo, commander, Catholic War Veterans and George Hunt, of the V.F.W. and Cooties. In fact, all local service organizations were represented.

Also present were National Vice-Commander William Unger, Pittsburgh, Jewish War Veterans; Samuel Horne, vice-commander, J.W.V. Southwest region; and Bert Horowitz, service officer of Disabled Jewish War Veterans, both of Pittsburgh.

Brown hopes to have the national organization of the Jewish War Veterans arrange a program whereby events will be staged and all veterans' hospitals be equipped with tele-sets.

Ruth Memorial Day August 16

CHICAGO, July 28.—(INS)—A baseball memorial day to honor Babe Ruth and the game's other dead was placed today on the sportsman's calendar.

The sports world rallied yesterday to the International News Service proposal for the annual ceremony on the anniversary of Ruth's death. Next month will be the second anniversary.

Still Mr. Baseball

American league president Will Harridge probably best expressed the sentiments of the baseball fans, executives and players. Harridge said:

"Even in death Babe Ruth still represents everybody on baseball."

Baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler called a minute's silence "so little for a player who gave so much to the game."

The suggestion for the memorial first came from INS last year and baseball fans and others indicated that they would like to make the tribute an annual one.

These retained his title by pinning George in 13:26 and then throwing him out of the ring just 2:25 later. George was counted out.

The National Wrestling Alliance Champion weighed 226. The challenger weighed 209½ minus his blue robe with white ruffles.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 28.—(INS)—Skip Alexander broke the Elmwood Course record with a 63 in the $15,000 Sioux City Open Golf Tournament but went into the second round of play today with only a two-stroke lead.

The bespectacled, 31-year-old Knoxville, Tenn., professional was just two swings ahead of Sammy Snead and Jack Burke, Jr. Alexander clipped nine shots from par yesterday by touring the 6,506 yard course in 32-31 and knocked two strokes from the previous record.

WEST PITTSBURG WINS

West Pittsburg came to life yesterday and vanquished the Field Artillery 6 to 4. Timely hitting by

Nerti, Falatko and Koslowski, plus Allegro's six-hit pitching was responsible. Owoc blasted out a two-base clout for the Field Artillery. The score was 4 to 3 going into the sixth when West Pittsburg got a pair of runs. The 229th rallied in the seventh but after scoring once their attack subsided.
